Block Printing

Speedball's heritage in printmaking began over 75 years ago by pioneering the manufacturing of water-based inks. Since that time, Speedball has become a true one-stop-shop for all things lino printing, offering the broadest range of inks, surfaces, tools & accessories and block printing kits available on the market today.

Block, or relief, printing includes linocuts, woodcut, rubber stamping - any method where you carve into a material (a block, plate, etc.) and print an impression of the carved surface with ink.

TERMINOLGY

Water-Soluble Inks are formulated to be dissolvable by water. This means that the inks will move, bleed or rinse off when encountering water after printing. Great for students and beginners.

Water-Miscible Oil-Based Inks are formulated to have working properties and print results similar to traditional oil-based inks, and allow for easy clean-up that requires no solvents. These inks are not dissolvable by water after drying.

Oil-Based Inks are formulated to have rich color and a long open-time, used by masters through the ages. Solvent or vegetable oil clean-up. These inks are not dissolvable by water after drying.

"I use the Fabric Block Printing Ink every week to create colorful and rich textile goods. The inks serve my studio set up quite well, as they only need to air dry for 24-48 hours and no heat set it is required. Besides the ideal drying time, the Fabric Block Printing Inks have rich colors and mix very well together. They print incredibly well on a variety of textiles and are wash safe."

"I designed this initially not as a product, but as a solution to eliminate all of the pain and issues I was having with my left arm, wrist and shoulder due to the constant pressure I was needing to put on it during carving. I got a hold of my friends over at Speedball because I have a great relationship with them and I love them as a company, and they figured out a way to manufacture it."
